Educator's Discount Program

Overview

Teachers, select school employees and homeschooling parents receive a 20% discount in our stores on most books used in the classroom (10% on Rosetta Stone merchandise) when using an Educator Discount Card. During designated Educator Appreciation Weeks, educators also enjoy special discounts and in-store programs. The annual Educator Holiday Shopping Event in December offers educators a discount on their personal holiday purchases.

Note: Schools or districts themselves can open an Institutional Account and be able to save 20% on purchases under $4,999 and 25% on purchases of $5,000 or more.

Guidelines

Pre-K-12 educators, including classroom teachers, school librarians, principals, guidance counselors, and homeschooling parents, receive a 20% discount off the publisher's list price on most books purchased for use in the classroom. During Educator Appreciation Week (held three times a year) and the Educator Holiday Shopping Event (in December), the discount on books increases to 25% and applies to both classroom and personal purchases. Educators also receive 10% off the list price on most DVDs and CDs during Educator Appreciation Weeks.

General Information

- We do not require a minimum purchase amount or an annual spending amount.
- Educator Discount Cards expire annually on October 31 of each year.
- Purchases made by schools and not-for-profit organizations receive tax exemption when accompanied by a purchase order and tax identification number.
- Purchases made by individuals are not tax-exempt. (Teachers purchasing items for the school to be reimbursed later must have a purchase order and tax-exempt number from the school.) If a purchase order is unavailable, the teacher must have a letter from the school stating supplies are for school purposes and payment will be reimbursed.
