

A Cup of Cool Water

Getting started in homeschooling can be frustrating and stressful. Wading through the flood of information, resources, and competing advice can leave you exhausted and ready to quit before you begin. A Cup of Cool Water is a series of free letters featuring common sense ideas that will help calm fears and instill confidence in your ability to successfully home educate your children. Each brief letter contains references and links to additional resources that you can use to expand your understanding.

Sign up in the Cool Waters sign-up box. We promise to protect the privacy of your email address. We do not sell or allow others to use your information. Click the un-subscribe link on each letter to stop at any time.
