Help Make the Family Resource Fair a Success

Hundreds of families each year count on getting the support and encouragement this event provides. The SMHEA fair benefits many new home educators who can't afford (or won't take) a long trip coupled with an expensive hotel bill to obtain necessary information and resources. Families who do not home educate also find our selection of helpful educational products attractive. In addition, the proceeds from our fair stay in our community helping to provide invaluable home school support and encouragement 365 days each year. It takes scores of volunteers and months of planning to make such a resource available. In this economic climate it is getting more difficult for exhibitors to make a profit. The best way to ensure that our exhibitors do well and want to come back in the future is to have a good turnout. We all can make that happen by taking a few minutes to personally invite people to join us at the fair.

Here are some ideas:

Pass the flyer on to friends along with a personal invitation to attend. Anyone with young children will be encouraged by the amazing selection of helpful educational products.

Post the flyer on bulletin boards at your church, YMCA, YWCA, library, Christian bookstore, school supply store, health club, neighborhood pre-school, private school, gymnastic or martial arts center, or daycare. Some of these places may allow you to place a stack of flyers where patrons may pick them up.

Pass along flyers to friends in church, Sunday school, community groups, and clubs.

Submit the flyer to organizations and publications and ask if they will post the date and website address (www.smhea.org) on their calendars.

The best advertising is a personal invitation. Support our fair so that SMHEA can be there for you and the thousands of other homeschooling families in this area. Save the date (June 24-25) on your calendar and plan to join us in our new location. If we all help a little, this event can be better than ever.
