

THEA Announces Free Smart Phone App

Tuesday, March 8, THEA announced a new smart phone app for Apple iPhones and Android phones.

Homeschooling dad, Steven Powers, owner of Apptastic Marketing worked with Cory Bennett to produce the free application which has been released on the Android Market and will soon be available on the Apple App Store. The new app will integrate with the new THEA website to allow users to get instant Tennessee homeschooling news, track legislation, check out curriculum fairs and graduations, and keep up with Capital Rally Day details. Click the graphic above or the link below to download the Android version and watch the www.homeschooling-tennessee.org and the www.smhea.org for announcement of the release of the Apple App when it becomes available.
